Police Recover Murder Weapon

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary announced Thursday that police have recovered a .38-caliber revolver, which he said was used in a double slaying in Dante's Restaurant in center city June 19.

Police divers using magnets recovered the weapon from the bottom of the Delaware River off pier 19 north. Frank (Birdman) Phelan, 26, indicted for the murders, told police he threw two guns into the river at this general location.

House Passes Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a $965-million housing bill Thursday but talked more about the author than the bill.

A 308-65 roll call passed the measure which is aimed principally at slum clearance.

The author is Rep. Albert Rains, D-Ala., who is retiring from Congress after almost two decades as the House's foremost authority on housing. The House made its debate and vote on the bill a tribute to him.

Nuclear Weapons Not In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Thursday President Johnson has not authorized employment of nuclear weapons in Viet Nam.

Press Secretary George Steed said so when asked by newsmen about Sen. Barry Goldwater's statement Wednesday that Johnson had told the Navy to use "any weapons necessary" against Communist North Vietnamese craft which attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Maddox Closes Restaurant

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Segregationist Lester Maddox slammed the doors of his Pickrick Restaurant in the faces of two young Negroes on Thursday and announced that he was closing for good.

The Communists have put me out of business," said, in the latest episode of his fight against the 1964 Civil Rights Act and federal court orders for him to comply with it.

Strike Vote Ordered By UAW

DETROIT (AP) — Scheduling of a strike vote by some 354,000 hourly rated employees at General Motors was announced Thursday by the United Auto Workers Union.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president, said telegrams were sent Wednesday night to all units ordering that the strike vote be completed before Aug. 31, when the union's contract with GM expires.

Senate Bans Indonesia Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to ban any further U.S. aid to Indonesia after hearing Indonesian President Sukarno quoted as saying, "The United States can go to hell with its aid."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who supplied the quote, said Sukarno should be "taken at his words."

Police Move Into Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Government military and police units began moving into North Katanga Province on Thursday amid indications of a general rebel withdrawal.

Reports reaching Elisabethville said Kabalo and Kongolo had been abandoned by the insurgents and that the rebels intended to abandon Albertville.

Market Continues Upward Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its rally through the second straight session Thursday as trading became a bit livelier.

Volume was 4.6 million shares compared with 4.17 million Wednesday and was the largest this week. Trading has become more active every day this week and now is approaching what was an average figure for the year.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 4.44 to 838.32.

House Unit Urges End Of Court Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee, in a move its chairman called extraordinary, Thursday cleared for House action a bill that would strip the federal courts of jurisdiction over state reapportionment cases.

10-4 Vote
Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., who engineered the starting maneuver that caught supporters of the Supreme Court's reapportionment ruling flat-footed, won a 10-4 majority in his committee with his plea: "This is an extraordinary action, but this is an extraordinary situation. If we don't get action during this session of Congress, the cause is lost."

Only in rare cases does the rules committee take a bill away from a legislative committee, as it did Thursday in taking from the Judiciary Committee a bill by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-Va. Tucker's bill would:

—Take from the federal district courts jurisdiction "to entertain any petition of complaint seeking to apportion or reapportion the legislature of any state in the union."

—Take from the Supreme Court the right to review the action of any federal district court or state supreme court dealing with state reapportionment.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee with "drastic and arbitrary" action in taking the Tucker bill away from his group.

As for the bill, Celler said: "If you take away jurisdiction over reapportionment today, tomorrow you can take away jurisdiction over civil rights and the next day over antitrust cases."

Eastburg Field Ready For Play

EAST STROUDSBURG — A $42,000 re-seeding, re-conditioning job on the East Stroudsburg High School football stadium will be ready for use this season by both East Stroudsburg and Stroud Union football teams.

Acting on the recommendation of its athletic committee at a meeting in the high school last night, the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Committee decided the field is ready for use this season. Use this Fall had been considered doubtful.

Martin Smith, athletic committee chairman, said, "The field will be torn up some but no permanent damage will be done." With Stroud Union paying half the cost, the committee agreed to re-seed the field next year for $500.

awarded a $8,800 contract to Paul L. Edinger of Stroudsburg to carry out repairs and investigation work on the Middle Smithfield Elementary School, which was damaged in the Marshalls Creek explosion.

The contract was let in three phases — to complete cleaning work and structural reinforcing, to complete heating and plumbing, to complete electrical and testing and to complete electrical investigating and testing.

Lee Everett, representing Everett Association of Allentown, district architect, said Edinger will give a report on the condition of the building and a decision will then be made whether to raze the building or to make repairs.

Alex Bensinger, district solicitor, declined to answer a question whether the district's insurance agent would pay the cost of the damage directly to the school committee or whether the committee would have to sue American Cyanamid, who owned the cargo that exploded, or the driver of the ill-fated trailer.

Bensinger said: "I will answer that in executive session. I don't think it should be discussed in public."

Police Nab Hospital Escapee

TANNERSVILLE — An escapee from the Allentown State Hospital was captured early Thursday morning by State Police from the Stroudsburg substation after he broke into Anglemeyer's Gulf Station in Tannersville, they said.

Arrested was James W. Allen, 23, of Trenton, N.J. Police said he had been "temporarily transferred to the hospital from Lehigh County Prison where he had been awaiting trial on several charges of forgery and passing worthless checks."

Police reported that Allen had broken into the gas station at about 1 a.m. by smashing a window in the rear. They said they were notified minutes later by Lucy Anglemeyer who was alerted by a barking dog. She told them that several men were guarding the garage with shotguns.

When they arrived, the troopers said, they found the escapee hiding under the right front fender of a wrecker in the service station.

Police said that when Allen was searched, several dollars worth of change taken from the station's cash register was found in his pockets.

Allen was taken by police to Monroe County Jail where he was held until a hearing later in the day before Justice of the Peace Mrs. Ruth M. Miller.

Allen, they reported, waived a preliminary hearing and was returned to Lehigh County Prison to await trial before President Judge Fred W. Davis on the burglary charge.

Senate Bans Indonesia Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to ban any further U.S. aid to Indonesia after hearing Indonesian President Sukarno quoted as saying, "The United States can go to hell with its aid."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who supplied the quote, said Sukarno should be "taken at his words."

Barry Steers Campaign Close To Middle Of Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has steered his campaign closer to the political center-line without crossing over from the right-hand lane in which he gained the Republican presidential nomination.

Goldwater's statements at the Republican summit conference at Hershey, Pa., Wednesday, apparently have made it easier for the party's liberals and moderates to accept some of their objections to his "revivacious positions on civil rights, extremism and foreign policy issues."

Realigning Stand
While he specifically disclaimed any intention of being conciliatory, he publicly reaffirmed his stand to conform with that of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, said, in pledging full support for the ticket of Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the vice-presidential nominee, that Goldwater has come very close to traditional Republican principles that reflect a moderate point of view.

Goldwater rejected the support of extremists, but specifically declined to denounce the John Birch society, as Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., had suggested that he do.

Gov. John H. Reed of Maine, who previously had been reluctant about supporting the Goldwater ticket, said, after the Hershey meeting, "I am ready to do whatever I can for the Goldwater-Miller ticket."

Reed said Goldwater had come forth with "a reasonable explanation of his position on extremism," about which the governor said he previously had had "very serious reservations."

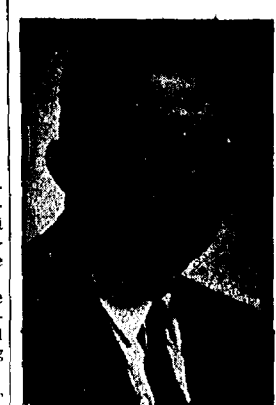

Set Of Principles
In his statement at the summit meeting, Goldwater laid down a set of principles that most of the Republican candidates think they can live with.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who previously had not defined the amount of support he would give to the national ticket, said, on his return to his home state, that the Republican party there will use "every asset available" in support of Goldwater.

There were some holdouts. Notable among these is Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, who has indicated he will announce next week whether he intends to seek re-election.

If he runs again, as he is now expected to do, presumably he would feel under some obligation to Goldwater because of the latter's pledge to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to use his influence with that state's conservative party leadership to prevent competition with Keating from that quarter.

Stanley B. Rader

Rader Pushes Rd. Work

STROUDSBURG — Stanley Rader, chairman of the county commissioners, yesterday criticized Coolbaugh Township supervisors for dragging their feet on abandonment and barricading of old Rt. 611 near the Mt. Pocono Airport runway.

Dec. in closing of the old road is holding up payment of about $24,000 by the Federal Aviation Agency to the Pocono Mountain Airport Authority.

"If those guys don't cooperate, we aren't going to cooperate with them when they come in for county aid," Rader warned.

He was referring to the distribution of state liquid fuels tax money by the county commissioners for township road work.

Charles E. Knecht of Tobyhanna, roadmaster and chairman of the Coolbaugh board of supervisors, said the supervisors had passed a resolution abandoning the old Rt. 611 section at their Aug. 3 meeting but had not yet signed it into law.

May Barricade Saturday
"We're waiting to see whether we are going to receive our liquid fuels money," Knecht said.

The commissioners voted last Thursday to give $2,660 in liquid fuels tax money to Coolbaugh.

Knecht said a meeting of the supervisors to sign the resolution was "possible" today. "We are going to try our best to block the road by Saturday," he added.

Knecht said the township had received $2,143 from the state last Saturday as reimbursement for construction of a new strip of township road from the present Rt. 611 to the old Rt. 611.

The new strip acts as a by-pass of the section to be abandoned and provides access from Rt. 611 to Camp Tegewilla near the airport.

Knecht criticized the state for being slow in reimbursing the township for construction costs on the 265-foot long, 18-foot wide blacktop strip. He said the road was completed at the end of May.

State Push

When state and township engineers inspected the new road June 24, F. Carl Withers, state highway district engineer from Allentown, said the date of barricading the road depends on "how fast the board of supervisors moves."

State, county, town and airport officials have been working on closing the old road for months.

On Feb. 27, almost six months ago, Robert Meekes, then chairman of the Coolbaugh Township supervisors, said, "Paperwork is under way to have the road abandoned."

He resigned as a supervisor May 1 and Michael Planchock of Pocono Summit was appointed to fill out his term.

UN Chief Predicts New Outbreaks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The U.N. commander in Cyprus, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, openly predicted Thursday that the present cease-fire between Turkish and Greek Cypriots is only a breather before renewed outbreaks.

Thimayya spoke at an impromptu press conference just outside the Turkish-held enclave of Kokkina, on the northwest coast of the embattled island. The Indian officer said, however, he felt the danger of an immediate renewal of the fighting has passed.

It was around Kokkina that the bitterest action has taken place in the past two weeks.

Greek-Turk Relations Hit New Danger Point

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Relations between Greece and Turkey reached a new danger point Thursday in their dispute over Cyprus. Greece rejected Turkey's appeal for direct talks on the crisis and Ankara threatened a mass expulsion of Greeks living in Turkey.

In Cyprus, the U.N. commander said the halt in the communal fighting "is only a breather."

More Troops
In New York, Secretary-General U Thant requested more troops to reinforce the 6,200 members of the U.N. peace force on Cyprus after meeting with representatives of nations that already have sent men or hospital units, a U.N. spokesman said.

Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu also sent a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev asking him to use his influence to steer the Cyprus government into a course more "legal, humane and peaceful."

The Soviet Union has backed the Greek Cypriots in the civil strife with the Turkish Cypriots, and Ankara has been accusing the Greek Cypriot government of trying to drag Turkey and Greece into a war.

COMFORT—Jean Fisher, 5, of 224 Main St. is comforted by her mother, Lorraine Henry, after she was struck by a car driven by Raymond Miller, 70, of 39 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg. The little girl suffered a cut forehead. She was admitted to Monroe County General Hospital where authorities said her condition was good. Blood on the foreground at her feet marks the point of impact. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Asks For Meeting

To head off the possibility of conflict between the two North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, Inonu appealed to Premier George Papandreu on Monday for a direct meeting between Greece and Turkey.

Papandreu gave his reply Thursday, saying, "Direct negotiations would only produce false solutions which worsen the situation and lead to disaster."

Papandreu said that if U.N. mediator Sakari Tuomioja's efforts fail at Geneva, where he has talked with representatives of both Greece and Turkey, then the Cyprus problem should be taken to the U.N. General Assembly.

Air Raids

Turkey launched a series of air raids on Greek Cypriot positions in northwest Cyprus last week to help defend a pocket of Turkish Cypriots in peril of being forced into the sea.

U.N. peace force units have begun setting up a buffer zone at the main danger point, Kokkina, a port defended by 500 Turkish Cypriots who were pressed from three sides in last week's fighting.

Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, commanding the U.N. peace force on Cyprus, declared on a visit to the troubled northwest coast that the halt in the fighting "is only a breather."

War Threat

Thus the grim prospect rose that Turkey might resume the air raids, once more raising the threat of war between two NATO members in the eastern Mediterranean. Greece warned Tuesday it would give full support to the Greek Cypriot government in case of new Turkish attacks on Cyprus.

Cross Held For Jury Action

STROUDSBURG — Holloman Cross, 38, of 18 N. Third St., was bound over for grand jury on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Floyd W. Kellogg yesterday. Cross was continued on $2,000 bail.

The charge grew out of a heated argument between Cross and his wife, Lena, and another couple, Mrs. Ollie Francis of 370 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, and Arthur Gammage of 8 Stoffer St., Stroudsburg, who was in a car in front of the Cross house when the shooting occurred.

A surprise development at the hearing came when Mrs. Cross had Mrs. Francis arrested for throwing a flower pot at her during the argument. Mrs. Cross said the pot hit her on the leg.

Conflict of testimony arose when Mrs. Cross said the pot was thrown before the shot which injured Gammage was fired. Mrs. Francis said she threw the pot after the shot.

Cross told Mrs. Francis, "I'll blow your head off," she alleged in testimony.

Kellogg initially set bail for Mrs. Francis at $500. She was released on her own recognizance after she told Kellogg that she could not make bond.

Viet Cong Trap Fizzles

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government efforts to trap 2,000 or more Viet Cong guerrillas through one of the war's biggest airborne operations appeared Thursday to have fizzled.

A regiment of Vietnamese troops—ferried by 96 helicopters Wednesday into jungle positions 30 miles northwest of Saigon against ground fire that killed a U.S. pilot—found the Red enemy had fled.

The troops located two Communist camps, both vacant and burned; tunnels, booby traps and old emplacements. They found several rifles and the bodies of four guerrillas.

Viet Cong agents in the past week distributed leaflets saying the guerrillas would no longer fight government troops as such, but would attack only those units accompanied by U.S. advisers.

The withdrawal could have been intended to contribute to this effort to drive a psychological wedge between the Vietnamese soldiers and their American allies.

Troops Ferried

But no one in authority believes the Viet Cong intend to cut down the scope of their operations. And a Viet Cong attack on a fortified hamlet near Phan Thiet, a coastal town 100 miles east of Saigon, reinforced that belief. The government announced 10 of the defenders were wounded and nine missing.

The pilot killed Wednesday, the 181st American to die in combat in Viet Nam, was Lt. Harold L. McNeil of Mount Pleasant, Tex. He was hit in the heart by a machine gun bullet while making a strafing run.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor combined an inspection tour and shuttle diplomacy on a flying visit to four communities in the 2nd Corps area north of Saigon, an area which would be among the first targets of any invasion from North Viet Nam.

WWS Warned Of Chester Situation

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Negro leader warned Gov. Scranton Thursday that racial tensions in Chester were at such a high pitch that the community could turn into a "Hartford or Rochester overnight."

"It's still very, very explosive in Chester," said Stanley Branche, head of the Chester Committee for Freedom Now, after a one-hour-and-10-minute meeting with the governor.

Branch described the session as "an informative thing," adding: "I told the governor what the problems are and I told him, 'it's up to you.'"

Child Hit By Car In S-burg

STROUDSBURG — Jean Fisher, 5, of 224 Main St. suffered a cut forehead yesterday when she darted in front of a car at Third and Main Sts., Stroudsburg police said.

Driver of the car was Raymond Miller, 70, of 39 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg, police reported. Police said Miller told them he was driving east on Main St. when the child came out of service station and darted across the street.

Her mother, Mrs. Lorraine Henry, of the same address, comforted the child at the scene. The five-year-old had a "nasty cut" on her forehead, police reported, apparently gained when she struck the pavement.

The little girl was taken to Monroe County General Hospital and admitted. Hospital authorities listed her condition as good, and said she had been x-rayed for possible internal injuries.

The accident occurred at 4:50 p.m.

Negro Minister Named Jersey Methodist Bishop

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Prince A. Taylor is an articulate, 37-year-old clergyman who believes that his appointment as bishop of New Jersey's 200,000 Methodists represents a significant breakthrough for the denomination.

Bishop Taylor, a Negro, now heads the 95 per cent white Methodist congregations in the state.

Color No Badge
"The very fact that I have been appointed a bishop," he said, "indicates that the Church doesn't feel that color is a badge of membership."

As a result of a realignment announced in June, 21 Negro churches will be admitted to the newly created New Jersey jurisdiction of the Methodist Church.

Bishop Taylor was appointed to head the denomination's

Reception

The reception he has received from members of the church has been overwhelmingly favorable, Bishop Taylor said. He has received requests to speak before a number of local congregations—"More than I can possibly fulfill right now," he said.

A native of Hennessey, Okla., Bishop Taylor was the resident bishop of Liberia for eight years before his newest appointment. He has been in Princeton since July 21.

Moves To Princeton
At the end of this month, he moves with his wife, Ann, to the home of a Princeton University faculty member who will be away on leave for a year.

Bishop Taylor said he believes his appointment may make it easier to carry Methodist integration a step further—into the individual churches.

"I think Negro Methodists are taking advantage of the opportunities for integration already," he said. "But I think my appointment will make it more natural for them."

"We would like to see greater integration of individual churches. But much of it will depend on the encouragement of the Negroes are given."

Membership in the Methodist ministry has been a family affair for Taylor. He is the son, grandson and nephew of Methodist ministers, two of his brothers are ministers and his five sisters married ministers.

Gap Pushes For Aid For New Reservoir

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Numerous petitions and telegrams from residents of one borough of Delaware Water Gap and its industries have been sent to the U.S. Congress seeking approval of an application for a grant-in-aid for a new water reservoir and pipes.

The application has been pending for two years.

Mayor Arthur Lehr said he feels the grant is justified since both state and federal governments reduced the taxable assets of the borough so drastically by the destruction of houses and hotels to construct the Delaware River Bridge.

More than 150 Water Gap families sent in a petition, as did the employees of the Ronsom Corp. In addition, telegrams were sent by Coates Board and Carlton Co., Waring Enterprises, Heico Co., Glenwood Hotel and others.

Cherry Lane To Present Comedy

TANNERSVILLE — "Three-penny opera" by Kurt Weill will open Monday at Cherry Lane Playhouse for a one-week showing. Source of the well-known hit by Louis Armstrong, "Mack the Knife," the book is by the famous German playwright, Bertold Brecht.

The English translation by Marc Blitzstein presented at Cherry Lane is the same as that which opened in 1954 off-Broadway and became the longest running musical in New York.

The work, which despite its name is a musical comedy, is a bitterly humorous satire which was part of the reason Kurt Weill hurriedly left Germany after Hitler's ascension to power.

First performed in 1928, "Three-penny Opera" starred Lotte Lenya and was directed by the composer. The show takes place in the 18th century in the infamous Soho section of London.

"Mack the Knife," played by Herb Sorensen who is also directing at Cherry Lane, is head of a notorious gang. He falls in love with Polly Peachum, played by Barbara Cook, and they are secretly married. Her parents pay another of Mack's girls to betray him to the police. Despite machinations by the hypocritical Peachums, who run a shop to outfit beggars, a happy ending finally ensues.

House Unit Okays DST Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee approved by a single vote a bill aimed at trying to bring order out of America's time confusion and do away with the phrase "daylight saving time."

The bill would attempt to set up a uniform national time zone system and end the present patchwork system in which one town can rush to a neighboring community and lose or gain an hour on the trip.

But the bill would not be mandatory. States and communities could decline to go along.

This lack of a mandatory provision evoked controversy at a closed session of the House Commerce Committee, which finally approved the bill by a 9-8 vote.

Temple To Honor Bar Mitzvah

STROUDSBURG — Today at 8 p.m. Temple Israel, Stroudsburg, will hold its Sabbath Service.

The services will be conducted by Steven Ellsberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ellsberg, of 58 S. Green Street, East Stroudsburg, who is celebrating his bar mitzvah this weekend.

Rabbi Bernard Presler will deliver the sermon entitled "Law and Justice."

Following the services, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsberg will be hosts to the congregation at the reception in the social hall.

Saturday morning services will be conducted by the rabbi at 9:30 a.m. at which time the bar mitzvah will recite from the prophets.

Following Saturday's services a kiddush will be held in honor of the bar mitzvah.

Bible Reading Case Put Off

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — U.S. District Court here has continued until Oct. 15 further proceedings in the Lebanon Bible reading case.

This action was announced as Judge Frederick V. Fieldner Thursday denied a motion by the Cornwall-Lebanon Suburban Joint School Board for summary dismissal of the complaint against it.

James N. Shively of North Lebanon Township brought suit against the board seeking to halt further Bible reading and prayers in the Ebenezer Elementary School, which his two children attend.

The case grew out of the U.S. Supreme Court decision which banned Bible reading and prayers as a required classroom exercise.

The school board is trying to draft a Bible study program that will fit into the framework of the court's decision. Judge Fieldner announced at a hearing last July 13 that any such plan must have the approval of state school authorities.

Ronson Appoints Brodsky Gap Plant Vice President

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. — Gerold Brodsky of Stroudsburg, has been appointed vice president of Manufacturing of the

Gerold Brodsky

Ronson Corp. of Pennsylvania at Delaware Water Gap. It was announced yesterday by Louis V. Aronson, II, president of Ronson Corp., the parent company.

Brodsky has been the Ronson lighter division's plant manager since 1957. He joined the Ronson Corporation in 1950 as an assistant plant engineer of the Newark, N.J., lighter plant. In 1954 he became production engineer of the Ronson Electric Shaver Corp., Stamford, Conn., and a year later was named purchasing agent of the Ronson Corp. of Pennsylvania.

Brodsky received his B.S. in mechanical engineering in 1949 from the Newark College of Engineering. Two years later he received an M.S. in management engineering from the same institution.

He is a member of Tau Delta Phi and of the National Association of Purchasing Agents. During World War II, he served in the United States Navy in the Pacific.

Brodsky and his wife, Phyllis, have three children: Meryl Ruth, Mark David and Steven Joel. They live at 901 Lindbergh Ave., Stroudsburg.

Time's Waste Criticized At Rotary Meet

STRODSBURG — Waste of growing leisure time by Americans was criticized yesterday by a U.S. Navy Reserve captain before the Stroudsburg Rotary Club.

"No other society in the history of the world has had so much leisure time," Capt. Kenneth Prescott said.

"But we Americans take 45 million aspirins every day, 20 million sleeping pills every night and 20 million to wake up, go get 'em, and knock 'em down pills every morning. And 50 per cent of our hospital beds are occupied by patients with nervous disorders," the captain asserted.

"We spend more for smoking and drinking (about $15 billion) than we do for our public schools (about $13 billion)."

"So we shouldn't criticize our schools and school taxes through the haze of our smoking."

Capt. Prescott laid down this formula for better living with more leisure time:

Constructive Concept
"To be master of yourself, to be really free, you must have a constructive concept of how you use your leisure time."

He compared the passive watching of a late show on television to the all-night discussions of philosophy in Plato's symposium.

Alan B. Starnes described the work of his daughter, Alana, as a Rotary International exchange student in Australia. He said the Waterbury Conn., Rotary Club had adopted her as his good will ambassador in Australia.

J. L. Cohen, introduced C. E. Edwards, a British economics student working in his public accounting office during a "three month working holiday" in America.

Catholics' Holy Day Tomorrow

EAST STRODSBURG — The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas Cawley, pastor of St. Matthew's Parish, reminded all Catholics that Saturday, the Feast of Mary's Assumption, is a Holy Day of Obligation.

The special dispensation has been granted by the Most Reverend Jerome Hannon, Bishop of the Scranton Diocese. Friday confessions will be heard in St. Matthew's in East Stroudsburg and St. Luke's in Stroudsburg at 4:15 and 7:15 p.m. Also St. Mark's in Delaware Water Gap and St. John's Bushkill, before mass on Saturday.

Saturday's mass schedule is:

St. Matthew's, 6:30, 9, 10:15 and 11:30, all in the morning and 5:15 p.m.; St. Luke's, 8 and 10 and 5:15 p.m.; St. John's, 7, 8, 9 and 10, and St. Mark's, 10:30.

Goldwater Shift

A funny thing happened to Senator Barry Goldwater on his way to the Republican unity conference in Hershey, Pa. Former President Dwight Eisenhower pushed him a few steps toward the middle of the road.

Goldwater of course maintained in his Hershey news conference that he had made no concessions and had not changed any of his policies or positions. Luckily, that is not quite true.

Both Goldwater and Eisenhower said publicly at Hershey that they had discussed Goldwater's speech and Eisenhower's endorsement of Goldwater before the meeting.

Ever since Goldwater made statements during his New Hampshire primary campaign against the income tax, social security and the United Nations, he has been changing these and many other positions.

He has become progressively more "moderate," more "liberal," and closer to middle of the road Eisenhower Republicanism.

While it leaves us wondering just where he stands and just what he really believes and stands for, this process of "moderation" is inevitable.

Goldwater the senator could get away with statements that Goldwater the presidential candidate does not dare to make.

It appears now that Goldwater the presidential nominee, who took a militant conservative stand at the Republican convention and beat down all liberal Republican platform amendments, felt he could make statements that Goldwater the presidential campaigner finds must be modified.

In his Hershey speech, Goldwater accepted several basic positions of Eisenhower or moderate Republicanism.

He repeated his recent repudiation of Communists and the Ku Klux Klan and said, "I seek the support of no extremist—of the left or the right." He condemned character assassins and vigilantes and groups which use terror or violence to impose their views.

This position is important because his nomination acceptance speech statement that "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice" sounded like an endorsement of extremists and an invitation for them to join the Goldwater team. He said this week that he meant complete devotion to liberty when he used the word "extremism."

It is also important because Goldwater had been accepting without comment, until last week, the public support of some leaders of the Ku Klux Klan, an extreme segregationist organization.

Goldwater also supported "unconditionally the purposes the United Nations was originally intended to serve" and pledged "all reasonable steps" to make it a "more effective instrument for peace."

This is important because Goldwater has always been suspicious of the United Nations, has often said the U. S. should withdraw if Red China is admitted, and in December, 1961, declared that the U. S. should quit the U. N. immediately because of the U. N. role in the Congo.

Goldwater repeated his support of the Social Security system and said he wants to see it strengthened. He had suggested in New Hampshire that it be made a voluntary system and was sharply criticized for that stand.

Perhaps his strongest moderation of position was on the question of civil rights.

He repeated his pledge of "faithful execution" and "full implementation" of the new civil rights law.

But he went further by pledging that his administration would take "within appropriate constitutional limits—whatever action is necessary to deal effectively with situations in this area that might develop in disorders, riots or any other forms of mass lawlessness."

He added that he would not "shirk any federal responsibility to prevent any American from suppressing the rights of any other American."

This is important because Goldwater's main argument against the 1964 civil rights bill, which he voted against, was that it involved the federal government in civil rights issues which he believed should be left to the states.

His new position strongly suggests that he would use the F.B.I. as President Johnson has in the Mississippi murders and New York riots and would use federal troops if needed to enforce the law and keep the peace.

Goldwater the more moderate, Eisenhower Republican, is clearly not the same militant conservative Republican nominated for President just one month ago.

He will certainly gain by his shift to the center. It will probably heal many Republican party wounds, quiet some fears, and bring him new support.

Conservatives will probably not desert him, because they have no one else to support and would certainly prefer a moderate Republican Goldwater to President Johnson.

The Pennsylvania Story

Reporter's Notebook

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — Reporter's Notebook:

Credit to Confair — Offense in the legislative jungle on Capitol Hill an active lawmaker or pushing a worthwhile program will see the project introduced in "the other Chamber." This means he doesn't have a ghost of a chance to get his name on the bill. And from that time forward the co-sponsors usually get all the credit — and usually deserving credit, too.

Something akin to this happened with the geriatric centers legislation in the 1964 special session. In the Senate, Senator Z. H. Confair, of Williamsport, worked closely with all concerned in a search for sympathetic and efficient methods by which care and treatment can be rendered the elderly. But bills to adopt the plan were introduced in the House of Representatives.

This column recently ran a two-part series on the new program — not the law of the land — for establishment of geriatric centers at State mental and State-owned general hospitals for care of non-psychotic patients who no longer need intensive psychiatric treatment.

Since due credit was given to the co-sponsors at that time, we now want Senator Confair to take a few bows, for the applause he earned working successfully for Senate passage of the program.

Another Office Building — Some of us can remember when the Capitol at Harrisburg was just the Capitol — a huge building topped with an ornate dome. Here the state government resided and sometimes played a game called politics.

No longer is there just the Capitol. It's now the Capitol Complex and it's getting more and more complex. Nine major buildings now surround the Capitol. Ground was broken for the 10th this week, as this complex grows and grows.

Sure, we're an expanding economy. Another $17 million for this expansion, brother. It will be 12 stories high and include such comforting features as moving stairs to ease the strain on creaking taxpayers as they glide to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles — one of the planned occupants — to buy licenses or complain about their lost applications.

The location: Next to (just east of) the new William Penn Memorial Museum and Archives Building.

RFD for LBJ — Now comes a new political group which is sure to send headline writers scurrying to cover under the copy desk. This outfit calls itself "Farmers and Rural Citizens for President Johnson Committee." The idea is to rope the rural vote for the man from Texas, James E. Work, of Uniontown, a five-stock man and dairy farmer, is State chairman.

Most Traveled Cows — The Travel Development Bureau of the State Commerce Department has over-reached its pitch about people visiting the good old Keystone State. Now cows from elsewhere are being lured to the lush pastures of Pennsylvania.

For the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show here Sept. 14-17, the State travel promoters say these adventurous bovines will come from all over the country. Commerce does mention, in all fairness, that dairy farmers will accompany the prize cattle.

Guns For Sale — The State Game Commission has a cache of 78 rifles and shotguns for the best bidders. They were seized from game law violators as part of the penalty for unlawful hunting. All next week, Monday through Friday, these firearms will be available for inspection and bids in Room B-25-C, South Office Building, Harrisburg.

No Ladycoops For PLCB — A few women still are employed as clerks in Pennsylvania state liquor stores, but they are holdovers from World War II — and don't ask their age. In tests for Liquor Board enforcement officers to be given September 19 women are banned "due to the nature of the work."

The Allen-Scott Report

Warren Report

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Earl Warren is setting an October 1 deadline for the long-awaited report of the special commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy.

As chairman of the seven-member group, Warren is vigorously pressing for winding up its extended inquiry and wants to better his deadline by several weeks. But it's still conjectural whether a final report can be agreed on by the middle of September, or even October 1.

Two factors are behind Warren's insistence:

(1) The probe already has run eight months, and it is his opinion that all the essential ground and facts have been thoroughly explored and assessed; (2) the Supreme Court reconvenes early in October and the Chief Justice is extremely desirous of concluding the commission's work so he can again devote himself fully to his judicial functions.

In the tribunal's coming term, it faces an especially heavy and momentous calendar.

Dear Abby

He's Certainly Thoughtless

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son never was very good about writing, so when he went into the service we didn't expect too much in the way of mail from him.

After we didn't get one line from him in over six months we got in touch with the American Red Cross, and they sent word to us that our son had been discharged three months ago.

Isn't the Army supposed to send a boy home after he's been discharged? I am sure they are. So why didn't they send our home? We are worried.

pointment to have a talk with our clergyman about plans for our furthering marriage. When they came back, they were both disgusted.

The first thing the clergyman asked my daughter was, "Are you pregnant?" She most certainly was not, but even if she had been, I don't think it would have been any of his business.

I thought clergymen were supposed to discuss the teachings of the Bible and the proper execution of the sacraments. If this is something new, maybe should have doctors of medicine in the pulpit. I would like your comments.

ALSO D. GUSTED

DEAR MOTHER: When a serviceman is discharged his transportation home is paid, but nobody "takes" him there. The Army is not responsible for a man once he is discharged. Don't worry. A son who doesn't write home once in six months is probably in good health somewhere, enjoying himself. He'll turn up.

DEAR ABBY: Should the man who catches the fish have to clean them before bringing them home? Or should his wife clean them?

LOVES TO FISH

DEAR LOVES: If the man fishes for sport, he should be a good sport and clean them himself. But no fisherman will clean fish if he's caught a sucker.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and her fiancé made an appointment to have a talk with our clergyman about plans for our furthering marriage. When they came back, they were both disgusted.

The first thing the clergyman asked my daughter was, "Are you pregnant?" She most certainly was not, but even if she had been, I don't think it would have been any of his business.

I thought clergymen were supposed to discuss the teachings of the Bible and the proper execution of the sacraments. If this is something new, maybe should have doctors of medicine in the pulpit. I would like your comments.

ALSO D. GUSTED

DEAR ALSO: Clergymen are people even as you and I. There are some bad apples in the liturgical barrel just as there are in other barrels, so don't judge all clergymen by yours. He should be reported to his immediate superior.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY IN HUNTSVILLE: You place too much emphasis on money. "Money never made a man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. The more a man has, the more he wants. Instead of its filling a vacuum, it makes one."

Speaking Of Your Health:

Let's Talk Plastic Surgery

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Q: Does the size and type of scar from plastic surgery depend on the surgeon's skill?

A: The healing of an incision usually depends mainly on the individual himself. The surgeon performing a routine operation cannot predict how any person will heal.

Q: Can plastic "face-lifting" be performed without any scars?

A: No. There must be a scar, since the skin is incised to remove the excess. The scar is usually inconspicuous because the incision is made very delicately, mostly along the hair line.

Choice Of Nose?

Q: When a "plastic" of the nose is performed, does the surgeon create the exact shape the patient wants?

A: Not always. Choosing an exact shape for the nose is not counting on absolutely precise results can be very disappointing.

Q: Does plastic surgery of the nose lead to sinus conditions?

A: There is no relationship between cosmetic surgery of the nose and infections of the sinuses. If sinusitis or post-nasal drip follows plastic surgery, it is purely coincidental and unrelated to it.

Q: Does plastic surgery of the breast cause cancer or infection?

A: Surgery for increasing or reducing the size of the breast does not produce cancer. Infections are always a calculated risk in all surgery, but is not a real danger since it can be readily controlled with modern-day antibiotics.

Q: Is the "sandpapering" operation for acne scars dangerous?

A: "Sandpapering," or dermabrasion is an exceedingly safe and rewarding procedure. Used with discrimination on carefully chosen patients, dermabrasion is very beneficial and produces gratifying results.

Rarely Erasable

Q: Can tattoos be completely removed?

A: Tattoos can be modified and faded, but rarely completely eradicated.

Q: Is plastic surgery performed for other than the usual nose, face and breast conditions?

A: The science of plastic surgery has a limitless horizon. Grafts for burns, skin tumors, blemishes, moles and birthmarks are but a scant few of the conditions which are benefited by plastic surgery.

The total rehabilitation of the total human being is the fundamental objective of plastic surgery, and often it attains its goal.

Barry, Party Unity

WASHINGTON — The Democrats are very disappointed at what is happening to the Republican party.

They thought they were seeing sure signs of a deeply divided and demoralized GOP in the wake of the harsh fight in San Francisco between the conservative and liberal wings of the party over Sen. Goldwater's nomination.

The Republicans are closing ranks pretty effectively. There will be fewer and less important GOP defections in the nation as a whole than there will be Democratic leadership defections in the South.

It is clear that Mr. Goldwater's bid for party unity by repudiating the Ku Klux Klan and by treading his definition of extremism is making far more headway than appeared likely a few weeks ago.

Except for Henry Cabot Lodge, who will be conveniently out of the country for most of the campaign, Goldwater is not losing the support of any of the party's top leaders. Goy, Scranton, Rockefeller and Romney have all come around. Eisenhower and Nixon were never on the doubtful list. Sen. Hugh Scott, running for re-election in Pennsylvania, is no longer a holdout.

Two or three Congressmen remain outside the party fold. Sen. Goldwater is not even giving up on Sens. Keating and Javits of New York. I suspect that if Mr. Keating accepts renomination for the Senate, he will be found supporting the national ticket.

The decision of the moderate Republican leaders to support Sen. Goldwater is exactly the same kind of decision in reverse which Sen. Goldwater had to make in supporting Nixon in 1960 and the Taft men had to make in supporting Eisenhower in 1952. Goldwater did not relish Nixon as the nominee anymore than Scranton relishes Goldwater.

Goldwater considered the Nixon platform a "surrender," but Goldwater put party loyalty as a controlling obligation. Scranton, Rockefeller, Romney and the others are doing the same today.

This is the code of the political professional. It is an honorable code. If you believe in the two-party system, which is crucial to responsible government in this vast and diverse nation, you can't walk out of your party just because in one year your viewpoint is in the minority. This is the code which the Scrantons, the Rockefellers, and the Romneys are observing. As

35 Minutes With Skunk

Skunks have a way of getting in the way. Take for example the recent experience of Jack Bernbaum and his lovely missus, Roberta.

Jack and his wife run the Eagle Valley Miniature Golf Course on the outskirts of East Stroudsburg. Their business is serving the public with golf sticks, balls and other tentacles of links play. Skunking is not part of their line.

Jack and Roberta were minding their own business the other night when the scent of the smelling business waddled in.

Skunkie took a long look around the 18-hole layout, scattered a few onlookers and headed for the golf shop. The animal got inside despite the "Shoo" by Mrs. Bernbaum and Jack.

The Eagle Valley business couple whistled, hummed and catcalled to drive the skunk from sauntering around golf bags and other equipment lying about. This didn't work as the animal wanted to probe further.

Jack got an idea. "Why not some food," he asked inquisitively. Two 14-oz. cans were sent across the street for a cup of milk and a hotdog.

The skunk wasn't interested in eating though and turned his nose up at the so-called tourist's gourmet delight.

Frantically, Jack and Roberta awaited you know what. But it never came as the skunk became as sly as a fox and kept the over-anxious sniffers on "snells and needles."

A short time later a man came to the rescue of the Bernbaums and grabbed the skunk by the tail and carried him away.

It wasn't a trying experience of the Bernbaums. But it was an ordeal that bordered on anticipation.

Some folks say a skunk squirts every 30 minutes. Jack says he was on his premises for 35. That left the skunk overdue. However, a count-down evaluated that the white-streaked rodent ear could have been de-skunked.

Anyway the Bernbaums would rather stick to golf and leave the skunks to themselves.

Buck Hill, County Meet On Easement

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners met yesterday with officials of the Buck Hill Falls Co. about easement for upper Broadheads Creek flood control dams.

Along with commissioners John Price and Stuart Pipher were Craig Right, state conservation engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, and Glenn Fisher of the local Soil Conservation office.

The group met with Clifford Gillingham, Marshall Reese, and Richard Edgerton of Buck Hill. Ed Hess, county engineer, was the middle-man.

The state and county have been trying to secure easements for the construction of flood control dams along the upper Broadheads, which flows through the Buck Hill property.

Gillingham, in a statement earlier this year, said that the Buck Hill Falls Co. was willing to give easements, but it would prefer the dams be erected upstream from the golf course.

Present plans call for a dam along the golf course near Deer Lake which was washed out by the 1953 flood.

Right said at the commissioners' meeting this morning in the courthouse that the question was not one of location, but of elevation of the dams. He said that the state has decided to construct them a little higher than previously.

"The matter's in Ed Hess's hands now," said commissioner Pipher after the afternoon meeting at Buck Hill. "Buck Hill wants him to make a map of the dam in relation to the golf course, and present it to him."

"Then they will take it to their board of action. Officials of the company asked if the dams couldn't be moved upstream further."

"Clifford Gillingham said that if Hess feels it's not feasible to move the dams upstream, then the company will have to reconsider their construction along the golf course," Pipher said.

Fish Case Goes To Grand Jury

HAMILTON SQUARE — A hearing for John Fish of 10 N. Third St., Stroudsburg, was held last night by Homer Osborne, Hamilton Square justice of the peace.

Fish is charged with malicious mischief to real and personal property. The charges were brought by Cyrus F. Knauss of 754 N. 7th St., Allentown.

Knauss said Fish had broken two cellar doors and several windows in a house Fish had rented in Swiftwater. Knauss owns the property.

It was found after testimony that the prosecutor had established a prima facie case. The case will now go to the Monroe County Grand Jury in September.

Teachers' Extra-Duty Pay Draws PM Board Comments

SWIFTWATER — Some members of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Committee have voiced concern over teachers wanting extra pay to cover time spent on extra curricular activities.

At a meeting this week, Vernon Rustine, a committee member from Jackson Township, said, "I am afraid we will get to the point where they won't want to do any extra work without getting paid for it."

John Montgomery, who represents Pocono Township, told Rustine: "We are at that point now."

Committee president, Dr. Edmund Magann of Barrett Township, told the committee it must continually study its policy to award extra curricular pay.

"From time to time we may have to make revisions in our policy to keep it up to date," Dr. Magann pointed out.

Clarence A. Major of Tobyhanna Township defended the teachers and pointed out, "Teachers don't teach just for the sake of a pay check. They have teaching at heart."

J. Lawrence Wile, high school principal, told the committee the only way to eliminate the extra compensation . . . "would be to make time available during regular school hours for the extra activities." He said this would involve cutting down on a teacher's classroom load.

The committee also indicated it is giving serious consideration to placing all district tax collectors on the same pay schedule.

Bernard Pallo of Mt. Pocono said the committee should study and review this situation all tax collector posts will be up for election.

Pallo said it would be desirable to arrive at a set rate before the district goes into reorganization, which will result in a single tax rate for all eight townships in the joint district.

He pointed out that at the present time some district tax collectors are on a commission basis and others are on a set salary schedule.

Balance $60,904

In other action the committee:

—Heard a treasurer's report showing the July 1 starting balance in all accounts was $60,904; July receipts were $2,962; July expenditures were $57,896; and the Aug. 1 balance in all accounts was $60,735, including $53,785 in a savings account.

—Approved payment of July bills totaling $17,695.

—Granted permission to the Barrett Junior Women's Club to use the high school auditorium April 24, 1965, for its annual Miss Poconos Pageant and the use of a classroom to the Youth for Christ.

—Heard a report showing the district's total market value for 1963 was $64,960,000 and the assessed valuation was $25,720,000. Coolbaugh Township was the only district to show a decrease.

—Awarded a $418 contract to the American Sealing Co. for 72 chairs and two chair trucks to be used in the music department.

—Approved a transportation contract with Thomas Hochrner and John J. Jakita, both of Tobyhanna for three bus routes in Coolbaugh Township. The total daily rates for the routes will be $68. Last year Jakita had all three routes and charged $78.

LCB Accepts Kemp Post 'Compromise'

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — The State Liquor Control Board said yesterday it has accepted a $100 "compromise" offer in lieu of license suspension of George N. Kemp Post Memorial Hall Association of Monroe County, 268 Washington St., East Stroudsburg.

The license suspension originally was to have become effective as of Wednesday for a period of 10 days on a charge of maintaining gambling paraphernalia and/or devices.

Under the compromise plan in use by the board, a licensee may petition the board for payment of a $10 fee for each day of ordered suspension in lieu of actual suspension.

When the petition is filed it is approved or disapproved by the board after consideration of such factors as previous citations and the number and degree of seriousness of the offenses.

102 Pints Of Blood Donated

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Red Cross collected 102 pints of blood at the CLU Club in East Stroudsburg yesterday. Eight additional volunteers were deferred for various reasons.

Tobyhanna Army Depot employees accounted for 61 pints of the total. The employees, who were on vacation during the depot's regular blood drive in July, wished to keep up their record of donations.

Jack Mullins, Monroe County Red Cross blood chairman, expressed his thanks for the Tobyhanna donors.

"Our wonderful friends at the Army Depot have come through for us once again," he said. "I don't know what we'd do without them."

The bloodmobile visit was sponsored by the General Labor Union. Quota for the drive was 125 pints.

County Gets $89,866 U. S. Check For Pleasant Valley Manor Work

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County was presented with a check for $89,866.74 yesterday — the first federal reimbursement payment for the Pleasant Valley Manor project now under construction.

The check was presented to the commissioners. The project at the manor will cost approximately $600,000 and will double the capacity of the present facilities.

It is slated for completion next March.

Warren Loney, county treasurer, said he was pleased by the prompt reimbursement. "This is the way it should be handled," he said. "I just hope they keep the checks coming along as the work is completed, and not all at the end of the project."

Loney indicated that it is difficult for the county to pay contractors' fees out of hand, and that swift partial reimbursement from the government makes the paying smoother and more efficient.

Two $500 Allocations

In other business, the board approved two $500 allocations, which are half of the budgeted amounts for 1964. The money will be given to Co. C of the Pennsylvania National Guard in East Stroudsburg, and to Pocono Mountain Industries.

The board noted the good job that Pocono Mountains Industries is doing under R. M. Hunt.

A letter was read from the Monmouth Camp Assn. of Barrett Twp. asking for a complete tax exemption for real estate taxes.

The letter said that the group owns approximately 275 acres. It also spelled out the uses of the camp. (Those were listed as a two-day minister's retreat, a Christian Teachers' retreat, a Christian Businessman's retreat, a women's auxiliary retreat, a two-week children's camp, a Monmouth Youth Fellowship retreat, and family outings.)

It listed the fees asked from these groups.

The board said that it saw no reason to grant such an exemption, but that the chief assessor will make a review of the property, its uses, and possible claim to exemption.

A letter asking exemption of Pleasant Valley Boy Scout Camp for 1964 taxes was also received. The board said that this will also be reviewed.

Robert Pinder, architect, met with the board concerning plans for renovating 609 Sarah St., a county-owned building.

Pinder is to give the board approximate costs of architect's fees and a general idea of the cost of making the renovations.

Marvin Abel and Mrs. Catherine Miller of the Civil Defense office spoke with the board about payment of contractors. They said a 10 per cent advance should be kept until all contracted work is done.

The board discussed a number of people who might make a survey of Flagler's Run and Stokes Mill to determine information for use on a Project 70 application, which is in the board's possession.

The areas must be surveyed with an idea of land value, extent of property, and extent of renovations toward creating a park.

Barrett Twp. Supervisors Okay Bills

CANADENSIS — Barrett Township supervisors last night approved payment of bills of $7,332.87, including $5,000 to Interstate Asphalt Co. for road repair materials.

Clyde Giese of Mountainhome informed the supervisors that he was asked to act as moderator for a taxpayers meeting next Thursday at Barrett Elementary Center at 8 p.m.

Giese said the purpose of the session was to discover the availability of Project 70 funds for financing a community swimming pool.

Roger Lindsey, chairman of the supervisors, read two letters dealing with a speaker from Leranton who would be able to answer questions concerning the area's economy for '70 funds.

Lindsey says he expects to attend the meeting and will announce later verification of the speaker.

In other business, the board agreed to have the fire company pay bills to Buck Hill Falls Company and present the paid receipts to the board.

A second subject was presented by Harold Bixler, president of the Barrett Fire Co. It was in reference to insurance coverage. According to the Workmen's Compensation firemen are carried under a separate rate in the township's policy.

Atty. Elmer Christman, township solicitor, will investigate the matter and give a report at a later meeting.

The township received a total $4.88 from the state in compensation for untaxable forest land.

Campaign Speech

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton will make a campaign speech in Minneapolis Sept. 23 as part of his efforts on behalf of the national Republican ticket his office said Thursday.

Scranton already had said he would make 18 campaign speaking engagements within Pennsylvania. An out-of-state schedule is now being developed.

Yellow Cab Co. Drivers Strike

Building Expansion Set

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—About 2,500 Yellow Cab Co. drivers struck Thursday after union officials said the company violated the contract provision for part-time employees.

The walkout, second city taxi strike in a little over three years, caused only minor inconvenience. The subway, bus, and trolley lines together with independent cab drivers and temporary car pools apparently filled the gap.

Secretary Henry D. Harrel said seven of the 11 facilities would be built along various highways for maintenance equipment and storage.

They should improve "our over-all services to the public," Harrel said.

One building will be a $441,000 addition to the Uniontown district office. Harrel said construction is expected to begin in early November.

The other projects include a $192,000 addition to the department building at Sunbury; a $135,000 storage and shop facility at Milford, Pike County, and a $75,000 improvement to the Laporte building in Sullivan County.

PV School Awards Contract

BRODHEADSVILLE — The possibility of having the University of Pennsylvania football team practice on the Pleasant Valley High School field was discussed at Wednesday night's meeting of the Pleasant Valley School Board.

Some members of the board said the team would bring good publicity to the area. Others said they were afraid the practices would ruin the field. No action was taken.

The board accepted a bid of $1,875 from the Earlville Bleacher Co. to erect additional bleachers on the football field. The company made the bleachers that are already on the field. The 500 new bleachers will double the seating capacity for Pleasant Valley home games.

Harold Everett, chairman of the maintenance committee, reported on the progress of shrubbery planting in front of the school. The board suggested the planting be started in a limited way late this summer. The project can then be turned over to the Future Farmers of America when school starts.

Everett was authorized to begin preparations for the planting. Problems of transporting students to the school were discussed. It was reported that families moving away and families moving into the area cause a problem for the drivers. Also there are certain families that insist their children be picked up last and dropped off first.

The board voted to inform all school bus drivers to run their routes according to their latest contracts.

Atty. Russell Mervine, board solicitor, was directed to write the Ross Twp. Supervisors asking them to repair the road from Ross Common to Rt. 450. At present, the road is unfit for school buses.

The transportation committee was then ordered to look into the school bus problems and report their findings at the next meeting.

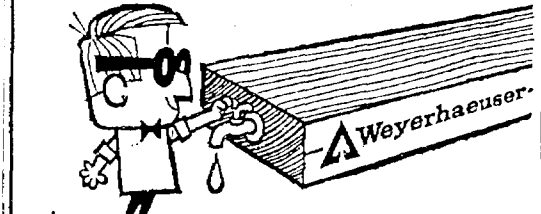

The board also: —Approved professional contracts for John W. Reed, Charles Haney, Elizabeth Haney and Kathryn James. —Announced the school financial records are being audited by Herbert Crane, Stroudsburg, C.P.A. They have been notified the state will audit the school around Sept. 1.

—Heard a report by Jack Newell, Pleasant Valley teacher, that the bowling club for students he started last year has grown to the point he can no longer handle it alone. He requested additional help in supervising the student bowlers. Board members said they would ask local bowlers to help out in the Saturday afternoon sessions at the Colonial Lanes in Stroudsburg. The board asked anyone interested in helping to supervise the bowling club to contact Newell as soon as possible.

The first crude attempts at bookmaking were made by writing on long sheets of papyrus which were rolled up from each end into sticks to aid the reader.

Easy Living Keynotes This House

By ANDY LANG
It is one of the paradoxes of life these days that, even though we live in a tension-packed world, most of us have more leisure time than we ever had in the past. Since we can't spend all our leisure hours in recreational activities away from home, it is important that our living quarters be designed for a considerable amount of easy living.

Perhaps that is why the contemporary, low-slung ranch house continues to maintain its popularity. It has a pleasant appearance, provides plenty of opportunity for various types of patios and gardens, is adaptable to excellent zoning, permits dramatic interior features and is easy to maintain. Add to that the absence of stairs and it isn't difficult to understand why fine examples of this style dot almost every corner of the country.

All such features have been well incorporated by architect Samuel Paul in Design H-43 in the House of the Week series. First of all, distinct zoning is provided in a flagstone entrance foyer that flows through from the front door to a covered rear porch, serving as a cheery "bridge" between the sleeping and activity areas.

The activity zone is further divided between formal entertaining and daily living, with the latter occupying the entire rear, overlooking and connected to the rear patio. The kitchen and family room form an airy ensemble over 27 feet long. Separation between the two is via free-standing kitchen cabinets which effectively divide the rooms, yet still permit the space to flow through. A battened cathedral ceiling further adds to the spacious effect.

A fireplace with a brick hearth, flush with the floor, serves as the focal point in the family room. The wall oven adjoins the fireplace, adding to the built-in look. There is also, within the kitchen, a room pantry, a built-in refrigerator, dishwasher and double-bowl sink. There is plenty of space for an informal dinette and, above it all, a built-in planter.

The living room and dining room also are in line, occupying the front of the house and creating an expanse of over 37 feet, including the foyer. Both rooms are formally laid out, also sharing a sweeping cathedral ceiling similar to the one in the kitchen-family room. The same fireplace which serves the family room serves the living room, but here it creates a more formal impression, acting as the physical center of the room. The bedroom area is well isolated, occupying one entire side.

There are three bedrooms, two full baths and plenty of closets. Of particular note is the master bedroom; the wardrobe is over 12 feet long, lined with mirrored sliding doors and naturally lighted via high windows. There is a built-in dressing cabinet, which can combine any number of drawers, trays and chests, as the owner sees fit, so that more space within the room may be made available. What might be called the final touch to this lovely bedroom is the sliding glass door leading to the giant patio.

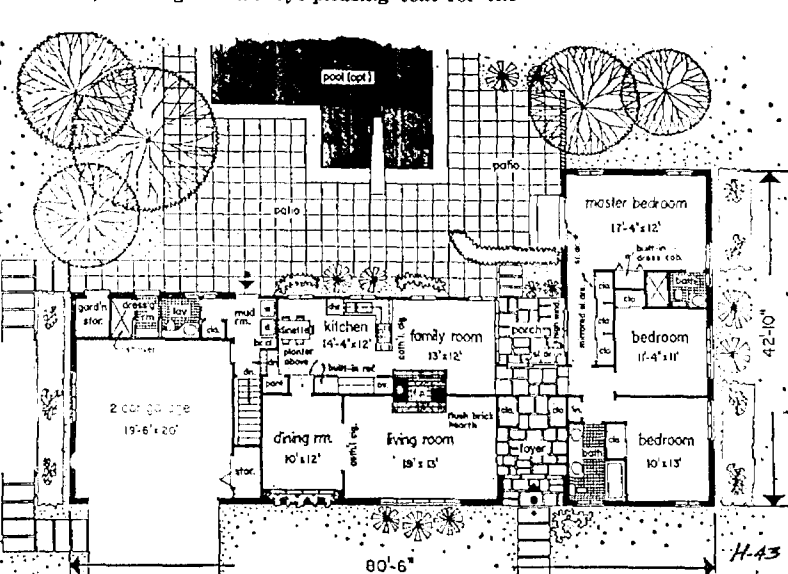

The service facilities in this house are located to the rear of and alongside the two-car garage, being immediately adjacent to the kitchen. There is ample space here for the laundry, a broom closet, another closet, a lavatory and a shower with an adjoining dressing alcove with its own outside entrance. This dressing alcove is a short distance from where the pool may eventually be located. However, it is accessible, via a sliding door, from the adjoining lavatory, thus in effect, creating a full third bath.

There are no two ways about it. A house like this needs a minimum lot of fairly good size, about 95 feet by 90 feet. But it has 1897 square feet of living area, not including the porch, patio, garage, service facilities and basement. And if it's easy living that attracts you, this house fills the bill.

H-43 STATISTICS
H-43 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, three bedrooms, two and one-half baths, an entrance foyer, mud room, shower and dressing room, two-car garage, porch and patio. There are 1897 square feet of living area, not including the garage, porch, patio and a basement. Its over-all dimensions are 80 feet six inches by 42 feet 10 inches with a recommended minimum lot of 95 feet by 90 feet. A swimming pool within the rear portion of the patio is optional.

SLEEK COMFORT: This ranch house has a sheltering silhouette, serving as an eye-pleasing coat for the many "easy living" features on the inside.

FLOOR PLANS: Everything in this house is designed to provide its occupants with an opportunity to live graciously and to entertain in style, either indoors or outdoors.

By ANDY LANG

The years bring more and more specialized finishing materials for wooden surfaces, but varnish continues to rank high on the list of transparent coverings. Its traditional beauty and durability have been enhanced by modern methods of manufacture.

QUESTION: There are four window wells around our house. Three of them work perfectly, but the fourth is continually filling up with water during periods of heavy rain. When it gets high enough, the water begins to drip into the cellar through openings around the frame. Can you tell us how to correct his condition?

ANSWER: Since three of the window wells are working all right this would not appear to be a general condition caused by lack of drain tile around the foundation of the house. Instead, it seems to be due to the compacting of earth in that area, preventing the rain from draining away.

Remove about three feet of the earth in the well Refill

As with all clear finishes, varnish is the subject of a million slight differences of opinion, even among professionals, on the proper manner of application. But there is no argument on one point: the big enemy of varnish is dust. Not after it has hardened, but before and during the applying and drying stages. It is imperative not only that every bit of dust be removed from the surface to be covered, but that the project be undertaken only in a reasonably dust-free room. This is not always possible; if it isn't, you're going to have a very difficult job getting a good result. Don't varnish in any room or place where any one will be walking until the final coat has thoroughly dried. And if you work in a place which has a concrete floor, such as a basement or garage, wet down the floor completely to prevent dust from arising.

Generally, it is recommended that dust be removed from the wood prior to varnishing with a clean, lintless rag dampened with turpentine. An even better way is to use a vacuum cleaner or o.c.e. of its attachments.

Remember that varnish, like any clear finish, will darken the wood slightly.

The varnishing should be done in a room or area where the temperature is at least 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

Don't shake or stir the varnish, as this will cause bubbles that will show up when the finish is applied. Use flowing brush strokes in the direction of the grain, then cross-stroke against the grain. Finish off by "tipping," which consists of stroking lightly with the tips of the bristles. For this third stroking, the brush should be almost dry.

Glossy varnishes give the toughest surface. Professionals often use the glossy-type varnish, then rub it down to a smooth satin finish. It is possible to buy varnish which gives a rubbed effect without the rubbing. Two or three coats are necessary, sanding lightly between coats and allowing at least 16 hours for each coat to dry before the sanding.

with gravel to its present level. See what happens the next time there is a heavy rain. The chances are you will have corrected the condition. But if it persists, you have no choice but to run some drain tile from the well to a point at least eight feet from the house, preferably into a dry well. A crude but satisfactory form of dry well can be barrel, with the top and bottom removed, set into the ground and filled with large stones and debris that will permit water to run past it.

Be sure a concrete or other satisfactory cover is placed on the barrel before it is covered by earth. The drain tile should run through a hole near the top of the barrel.

The automatically retracting hose-spray, long popular on the kitchen sink, is finding its way into other parts of the home. The Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau reports that the laundry room, for instance, is a prime spot for the hose-spray. As an integral part of the laundry tray, it is ideal for spot-scrubbing badly soiled clothes before they go into the washer. It's also perfect for small cleaning jobs that you wouldn't attempt at the kitchen sink.

The mud room and garage are other good places for the hose-spray. The home gardener and hobbyist will find it useful in cleaning dirty tools and hands.

Ross: 4-Area School Plan Impossible

STROUDSBURG — In its appeal to the State Board of Education the Ross Township School district claims that the proposed four-district school plan for Monroe County will make it impossible for all districts to provide a comprehensive education.

The appeal, filed by school solicitors, Mervin Brown and Newman Stroudsburg, has been sent to the Department of Public Instruction and the state board in Harrisburg.

It claims the following:

(a) That all of the proposed school districts in Monroe County will contain pupil populations of less than four thousand each;

(b) That the fragmentation of Monroe County into several small school districts presently makes it, and will in the future make it, impossible for all of said districts to offer to all of the students of Monroe County the capability of providing a comprehensive program of education, taking into consideration, among other factors, those of population, pupil population, tax base, wealth per pupil, standards of teachers, standards of administration and of salaries, diversification of offerings, competition for personnel, etc.;

(c) That the aforementioned plan of the Monroe County Board of School Directors will perpetuate uneconomical practices such as overlapping administrations, unbalanced use of existing school buildings and facilities which has resulted in certain buildings being overcrowded and requiring expansion while other buildings in the county are not used to their fullest potential, and uneconomical transportation of pupils based on place of residence rather than on educational and geographical factors;

(d) That Monroe County is a seventh class county of approximately forty thousand population which is essentially a unified community centered on the area of the Boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg;

(e) That the aforementioned plan of the Monroe County Board of School Directors will make it more difficult, and sometimes impossible, for all the districts in the County to offer to all the pupils in the County specialized and/or advanced classes for better students, or in scientific, technological, cultural, and special education fields, especially when viewed with regard to the obviously increasing demands of society, business, and government.

Judges Cancel Okie Primary

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A special three-judge federal court recently wiped out Oklahoma's spring primary legislative elections and ordered new elections based solely on population.

The court ruled membership of Oklahoma's 1965 legislature must comply with recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings requiring apportionment of legislative seats on an equal population formula.

After vacating the spring primaries, it directed Gov. Henry Bellmon to proclaim and conduct special legislative elections under a stern population-only reapportionment order it adopted.

The court warned that if its order is not followed, it "stands ready" to implement it by judicial decree.

New Grenadier Patterns To Be Unveiled Tonight

STROUDSBURG — The Keystone Grenadiers will kick off a new phase of their development over the weekend when they take to the field and present intricate marching routines at the half time ceremonies of two early season football all-star games.

The marching Grenadiers, 39-men strong, will perform before an expected 10,000 people at the Kingston High School stadium Friday night at Luzerne County's annual East West game.

Saturday night the drum and bugle corps will again strut its stuff at another all-star football game in Lancaster.

Harry Mullins, corps business manager, said the group will leave for Kingston at 5:15 p.m. from the VFW home in Stroudsburg. Saturday the corps will depart for Lancaster from the American Legion home in East Stroudsburg at 2:15 p.m.

Mullins said chartered buses will be provided for both trips.

Two Years Of Drills
The field maneuvers are the culmination of a two-year struggle for the Grenadiers. "Ever since we were formed by merging the VFW Hawks and the American Legion Falcons, we have been aiming for this chance," Mullins said.

"We have been drilling for this type experience," he continued, "by holding practice sessions twice weekly for a number of months."

The corps is made up of boys and men from the Stroudsburgs and the surrounding Monroe County area, as well as members from New Jersey and Wind Gap.

Mullins said some of the members have musical backgrounds and some don't. "The ones that don't, we taught from the beginning."

"We take a boy or man who shows some interest in playing an instrument and teach them the fundamentals. If they show some potential we will work with them and eventually teach them to read music."

Driver, 69, Unhurt In 2-Car Crash

STROUDSBURG — A 69-year-old East Stroudsburg man escaped injury in a two-car crash at Phillips and Queen Streets in Stroudsburg Wednesday at 1 p. m.

Percy Lee of 481 Youngwood Dr., East Stroudsburg was driving west on Phillips St. attempting a left turn into Queen St. when the collision occurred. He collided with a car driven by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Konawalik, 37, of 183 Jefferson Ave., East Stroudsburg who was traveling east on Phillips St.

Stroudsburg police said.

Police said Lee's vehicle cut across in front of her car. She pulled to the right to avoid colliding and struck the right rear fender of his car. The right front door and rear fender of the Konawalik vehicle was damaged, police said.

THE WORLD'S FINEST USED CARS ARE BUILT BY CADILLAC.

To prove our point, we offer as evidence the three Cadillacs shown above.

From top to bottom in our illustration are a 1960 Sedan de Ville, a 1962 Coupe de Ville and a 1963 Sixty Special. Each is unmistakably Cadillac. Each, regardless of vintage, will have special appeal to the man who desires the comfort, convenience and pride of ownership that only Cadillac can offer.

That's why thousands of wise car buyers favor a previously owned Cadillac over new cars of other makes.

First of all, they realize that Cadillac engineering is so far advanced that "newness" becomes a relative term. In fact, there are features found on late model Cadillacs that are only now being offered on other cars. This is a major reason why a Cadillac retains its value through the years, from buyer to buyer.

Another thing to consider. Cadillac owners lavish the most meticulous care on the cars they are so proud to own. The "car of cars" almost always receives regular maintenance and servicing by highly skilled and carefully trained mechanics.

Your authorized Cadillac dealer's selection of owner models has never before been so appealing. And he can probably match one of these fine cars to your budget.

Who knows? Your used Cadillac could possibly be the "newest" car you've ever owned!

Security Trust To Build New $600,000 Bank

By Jim Ottaway Jr.
Daily Record Editor

STROUDSBURG — A modern Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co. building will soon rise on the site of the demolished Indian Queen Hotel.

Christie D. Shull, executive vice president of the bank, announced yesterday that a $600,000 one-story banking office should be open for business by June 15, 1965.

He said the present bank building at the corner of Main and 7th St. would be maintained as "a downtown convenience facility" manned by three employees.

The rest of the present building will be rented. Carl M. Loeb, Rhoades and Co., stock brokerage firm at 18 N. 7th St., has expressed interest in relocating its offices there.

The expansion is one growing part of a successful and growing bank. With total assets of about $35 million, it is the largest locally-owned and operated commercial bank in the Pocono Mountains.

No Marble Monument

"I have always said that you can't make money with a marble monument," Shull said.

"You have to serve the public properly. We have outgrown our present facilities and are building this new office so that we can offer the public adequate parking space and drive-up facilities. Our present building is like working in a trailer. We will have adequate working space in the new building," Shull added.

There will be 60 parking spaces on asphalt areas behind the bank with entrances and exits on Main St. in the front and Monroe St. in the back.

The 18,000 square foot building will have three drive-up windows on the side near St. Luke's Catholic Church.

The building is 101 feet wide on the Main St. front and 183 feet deep, with side, rear and front entrances. There will be a walk-up window and night deposit box on the Main St. sidewalk.

A two-level vault, 16 by 35 feet in floor size, will rise above the one-story roof. The face will be gray brick with a seven-foot aggregate faced panel overhang around the outside walls.

The building was designed by Rinker, Kiefer and Rake, Stroudsburg architects.

Department Cubes

William A. (Doc) Rake, member of the architectural firm, explained that the building is designed with large cubes, using the same gray brick and aggregate panel around each interior department cube that is used on the outside of the building.

ing.

There will be garden gate entrances to each departmental area with floors of quarry tile. A center mall from the front entrance to the rear entrance will divide the building.

Rake said there would be golden metal trimmings on the exterior, with concrete block seats and a bed of pachasandra in front of the building.

A concrete sculpture, in the form of an upright Brancusi bird, will stand at the left of the front entrance.

Edinger Contractor General contractor is Paul Edinger. Subcontractors are M. F. Weiss of Brodheadsville, heating and air conditioning; Edward Rahn of Stroudsburg, electrical work; and D. Katz and Sons of Stroudsburg, plumbing.

The building has been designed for "odd hour banking," according to Shull. That means that parts of the bank, like the drive-up facilities, can be used without keeping the whole building open.

The public banking floor with 14 teller stations is arranged in a square in the center of the building. This is an increase from the 10 teller stations in the present bank.

There will be five executive offices, three conference rooms, a trust department with three offices, and a consumer credit department with six offices and a large work room. An employee lounge and kitchen is in the rear of the building.

Drive-In Banking

Shull said the new bank reflects the increasing demand of customers for more drive-in facilities.

He said the present bank's 7th St. walk-up window already serves an average of 250 customers daily with about 500 served in a two and a half hour period on Fridays.

Shull said the expansion would not increase the present average employment of about 70 people in the bank and its four branches in Tannersville, Brodheadsville, Mountainhome and East Stroudsburg.

The bank was founded in 1909, when Frank B. Michaels, presently honorary chairman, was an incorporator. The Security Trust Co. of Stroudsburg merged in 1931 with the Stroudsburg Trust Co. and in 1959, the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. merged with the Monroe County National Bank to form the present Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co.

Rt. 84 Group Reviews Constitution, Picks Aides

PORT JERVIS — The newly formed Route 84 Highway Assn., designed to speed up construction on the Interstate Highway reviewed a new constitution at a recent meeting.

The constitution named Port Jervis as the first headquarters for the association. Jack Harford of Port Jervis was named president.

There were 37 people from communities in New York and Pennsylvania at the meeting. The group elected two vice-presidents — Mayor Merlin Wood of Matamoras, and John W. Beal of Beacon, N.Y.

The organization delayed naming a vice-president from Connecticut since no representative from that state was present.

The vice-presidents will name three directors from each state to form the first board of directors. Harold MacDonald of Milford was named secretary.

Those at the meeting included representatives of Port Jervis, Wellkill, Deerpark, Matamoras, Milford, Montague, Monticello, Middletown, Beacon, Scranton, Pittston and Wilkes-Barre.

There were also representatives from the Orange County Development Co. and the Port Jervis Chamber of Commerce, which sparked initial plans for forming the association.

Miss Saunders received orientation at the U. S. Embassy in Mexico City, and is studying at the Escuela Normal Superior. She will also visit other schools and colleges in Mexico.

Depot Librarian On Staff At Fair's Reference Center

TOBYHANNA — Miss Bernice Cohen of Scranton, an employee of Tobyhanna Signal Depot, left this week on a six-week assignment to the New York World's Fair, where she will serve as librarian in the American Reference Center of the U.S. Pavilion.

Miss Cohen, who holds a master's degree in library science from Marywood College, was one of 18 librarians chosen by the Army to staff the "Library of the Future" at the Fair.

She is employed as a librarian with the Supply and Maintenance Command Movement and Storage Center, a national activity based at the Tobyhanna depot.

George Washington invariably had bad luck with inns. He once noted in his diary that his "thread Bear blanket had double its weight of vermin such as Lice, Fleas, etc."

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Wednesday night when the moon slipped out of sight at the Philadelphia Orchestra concert, it was not behind clouds but behind the hills as the concert drew to its triumphant close with the weather perfect — for those with a coat or sweater.

In the pauses and during the pianissimo portions, the tree trunks joined in the symphony, not always quite in the time the composer had specified, but adding their own syncopation. All in all, I can't imagine where it could have been improved upon and the audience backed up that opinion with its applause.

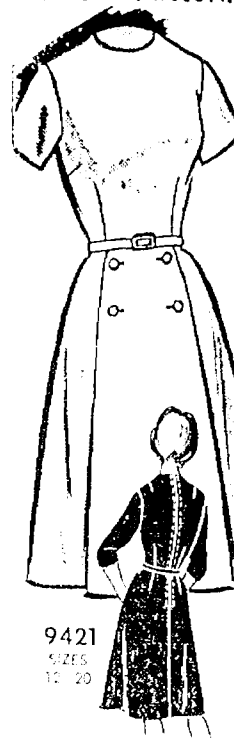

So on to the next big event in a mighty big week, and that's Tony Lema Day today which takes on its social aspect if only by reason of all the women who have been drafted as ticket-takers and food and drink dispensers, all for the worthy cause of the General Hospital.

The denuded greens have made a partial comeback, and the women's golf tournament yesterday was played in and around mowers mowing, workmen sharpening the edges of the traps, and hoses giving their last sprinkling to greens and tees.

New tee markers, which look sort of like half-buried bowling pins, have been set up on the men's tees, and I guess everything is as ready as men can make it. Including the weather forecast. Although if it's a repeat on yesterday, better take a sweater. The wind really was Novemberish when the sun was behind one of those big fluffy clouds.

And after that comes Saturday and maybe a chance to catch up on that sleep I lost last weekend. Although I really shouldn't complain. Lura Evans, getting home at 6 a.m. was awakened by the telephone at 8 a.m. reminding her that the first match of the Shawnee Women's Golf championship was that morning not Tuesday as she had thought. She played, too, and only lost one-up.

Stroudsburg — Miss Rita Kravchuck and Richard William Herber, both graduates of East Stroudsburg State College, were married at 3 p.m. on Aug. 8 in St. Michael's Russian Orthodox Church, Old Forge by Rev. Vladimir Soydyra. Music was provided by the church choir.

E-Burg Man Guilty Of Deer Charge

EAST STROUDSBURG — At a recent hearing before a justice of the peace an East Stroudsburg man pleaded guilty to possessing parts of a deer killed out of season and was fined $200 and costs.

Harry M. Ludwig, 30, of 473 Lincoln Ave., pleaded guilty before Harold D. Larson of East Stroudsburg.

John Doebeling, Monroe County game protector, said the deer had been killed May 30. It was pointed out at the hearing, Aug. 8, that the state game laws of offense was the third charged against Ludwig.

Doebeling also said Larry R. Christman, 18, of Kunklestown, RD 1, has posted bond to appeal a charge of being in possession of three deer in closed season.

Christman had been found guilty at an earlier hearing before Justice of the Peace Nathaniel E. Gruber.

Christman entered a no defense plea but filed a bond to appeal the verdict. He now has 10 days in which to make the appeal. Conviction carries a fine of $300 and costs.

Doebeling said the violation took place June 21. Two co-defendants paid $300 fines and costs outlaid receipts to David Boyer, Carbon County game protector.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You can brighten your life considerably if you are ambitious enough to undertake some intensive and talent. Extend your sphere of action, broaden your horizons. April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't be so cynical as to believe that everyone has an "axe to grind." Some persons may seem to have motives incomprehensible to you, but if you will make an effort to understand their behavior, you will find them not as complex as you thought. Remember this today, when you could run into such a situation.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Fine Mercury influences should benefit both your personal and business life. In the former, some new and interesting friendships seem to be in the making, and, in the latter, opportunities for gain are indicated.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Some activities will require more than the usual thought, now, not only in the scientific work, educational pursuits, investments, closing deals and business transactions. You may have to reckon with some unforeseen forces, may have to take a longer-range view in planning.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — A somewhat adverse Mars aspect now suggests that you avoid antagonizing others. If necessary, to make your viewpoint in discussion, do so discreetly. Don't fly off on a tangent.
November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Success recipe for this day: strength of will, constant effort, good judgment and tolerance toward all. This is a good period for the astute thinker and inventor. You are especially indicated. Spend with forthright.
December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — Illustrate your own doubts and fears. You can accomplish much now, just be careful not to scatter energies in unproductive fields. Your hands are full; try their skill.
January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — This could be a dull period unless you put your innate fire and buoyancy into it. Communicate with others who share your interests. A mingling of ideas could prove highly profitable.
February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Do not allow your imagination to be inveigled into situations foreign to your principles and incompatible with your idealistic nature. Listen only to ideas and propositions which you can back conscientiously. Emphasize your ideas.
You, BORN TODAY are a clear-thinking, level-headed individual; are a tower of strength to others and, on your own, can work your way to unbelievable achievements. You have an innate respect for leadership but must try to curb a tendency to be overly critical of others. You are extremely versatile, could succeed in almost any field of your choosing, but may show especial aptitude in the medical professions, in the diplomatic field, as a lobbyist, as a court interpreter. Cy Barrett Says Reaps Opportunity

DEAR CY: This country is rolling along on mediocrity and I am a ball bearing. My work at this company is doing the same old hackneyed office work, the same as the old timer before me. Sometimes I feel like blowing my stack, and may do it one of these days. Should I?

BALL BEARING

DEAR MR. BEARING: Management rolls along on mediocrity when ball bearings prefer the frictionless path. At a plastic molding company, a young designer was asked to rework a beer sign designed for a new brewer client. He suggested some alternatives but was firmly rebuffed.

In exasperation he fumed, "I refuse. I refuse. I refuse to do any more stupid work." Following this outburst, he waited patiently for the blast. In twenty-four hours it came. The boss's secretary asked the young man to report to the president "on the double."

There on the carpet, he explained, "Give me some creative freedom and I can produce work which will not only be a credit to the company but please the client more." The boss challenged him, "You have five days to be back here and prove your point." When he next appeared on the plush maroon, the young designer sold his ideas with the momentum of a runaway mail train.

Besides sound, spectacular sketches, he provided detailed engineering explanations. I'd like to claim this young man went on to become president of the company but can't.

When the executive vice president resigned to take a more lucrative job with a competitor, he took the young upstart along.

DEAR CY: Please inform G. Herter, the man whom you advised to become a door-to-door salesman, he can sell me merchandise if he doesn't do a few things. If he doesn't come around with alcohol on his breath; if he doesn't ask for sympathy; if he doesn't insist on what I need; if he doesn't put his foot in the door.

For a change, I want a gentleman to call on me and let me buy what I need. He can save the blah, blah, blah.

MRS. TINKER

DEAR MRS. TINKER: Your home is unfortunately on the route of a door-to-door salesman who refuses to mature. Although direct selling has come of age, he prefers to work with one foot in his mouth and the other in a door. Consider, Mrs. Tinker, that the average age of members in the National Association of Direct Selling Companies is 50 years. No firm reaches prosperous middle age whose sales representatives habitually fog the air with alcohol fumes, sour mouth talk, and act discourteously. Your home is your castle. When this humbling public relations miscreant approaches, bar the door and take to the tower. There are thousands of direct salesmen (and women) with whom you will enjoy dealing.
